

Tractor Business Booming, President Asserts HUNS MAKE RAID ON U. S. SHIP Three Austrian Peers Executed By Communists

PRODUCTION RECORD IS EXPECTED

FUTURE OF OUR INDUSTRY COULD NOT BE MORE ENCOURAGING.
STATEMENT TO STOCKHOLDERS
W. C. Durant, General Motors Chief, Predicts Great Future For Samson Machines.

"The development of the tractor business is continuing most satisfactorily," says President W. C. Durant in his annual report to the stockholders of the General Motors corporation, "and notwithstanding the stoppage of active construction work on the first unit of the new tractor plant at Janesville in the fall of 1918, due to the war, the production of Samson tractors in quantities is expected to be reached shortly. The future of this business is encouraging."

The report of the corporation for the past year shows a net profit of $12,905,063, after a 6 percent dividend on both the preferred and common stocks has been declared. The net sales of all the companies controlled by the General Motors corporation amounted to $326,044,755. Payroll is $52,500,000.

The number of cars, trucks, and tractors sold during the year was 246,824. The payrolls for the year aggregated $52,500,000. The number of employees in the service of the corporation at the end of the year was 42,118.

Some idea of the wealth and greatness of the company is shown by the fact that the company's assets are valued at $1,000,000,000.

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS PLANNED AT "Y"; TO MOVE BOYS' DIVISION

Extensive improvements of the main building and dormitory of the Y. M. C. A. to cost approximately $4,000, were unanimously decided upon at a meeting of the board of directors last evening. The rooms will be redecorated and refurnished, the boys' department will be moved to the first floor, and the dining room and kitchen to the second floor.

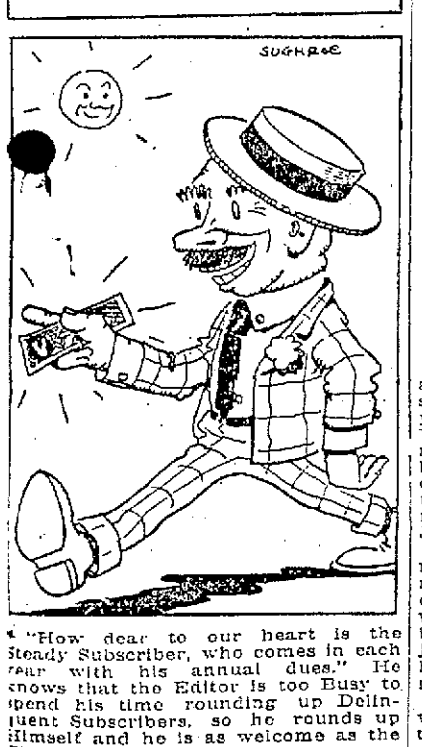

In improving the dormitory, every room will be attractively decorated, pictures will be hung on the walls, and new chairs and beds added. The lavatories will be located in an outside room on each floor in the center of the building.

The rooms will be made as home-like as possible.

The boys' department which has outgrown its quarters on the second floor will be moved to the main floor, the large room now used as a dining hall. The present kitchen will be abandoned, the room being remodeled into an office for the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. An entrance to the boys' department to open on South High street near the north end of the building will be cut.

The room on the second floor now occupied by the boys' department will be used in the future as a dining hall with the reading room to be used as a kitchen. For large banquets and dinner, which will include such affairs as the Twilight club, the gymnasium will be used as a dining room.

NEW COUNCIL WILL MEET TONIGHT

(By J. B. KELLY)
City aldermen last night paid a fitting and cordial tribute to their retiring leader, Mayor Charles L. Valentine's regime.

The session was the last under Mr. Valentine's regime.

Tonight the new council starts with Mayor-elect Thomas E. Welsh in the presiding officer's chair and William J. Hill occupying the chair of the Fourth Ward and Edwin F. Kelly replacing Arthur Jones in the Fifth Ward chair. Just before the meeting terminated.

Efforts to have the Third Ward officially made a municipal neutral zone for manufacturing plants were defeated last night.

Attorney Charles E. Pierce attended the session and during the adjournment approached members with the idea of having presented to the city a resolution declaring the Third Ward solely a residential district. The resolution appeared satisfactory but when aldermen fully appreciated and digested its meaning the idea failed to arouse any enthusiasm or find any backers.

There was no argument over it. Mr. Pierce was plainly informed that it would not be introduced.

Mr. Pierce immediately left the council chamber.

Mayor Valentine arose and addressed the council. He thanked them for the courtesies shown him and urged a hearty cooperation for the coming year with the new mayor, such as he said had been shown by him while they were working together and as leader of the city's work. Mr. Valentine spoke as follows:

Valentine's Address
"Before the word of final adjournment is said I wish to thank the members of the council for the consideration they have shown for the past year. I assure you of the appreciation I have for one and all in the honest effort that has been made to conduct the business of the city in an able and efficient manner."

"You city officials have joined with me to attain this end, and I will be the wish of all our people that your work along the lines indicated will continue for the coming year and I sincerely believe that such work will be done in cooperation with those having the future prosperity of the city in view, and that no opportunity will be neglected or overlooked that has that object in view."

"For the incoming mayor I bespeak the same cordial support you have extended to me."

"I thank you."

Welsh Takes Floor
Mayor-elect Welsh took the floor after Mayor Valentine's address and said: "I fully appreciate the help you have been to this council. Mr. Valentine and I regret that you cannot be with us two years longer. You have our sincerest good wishes, not only for you are not going for the future for you are not going for the future but will be with us in future Janesville."

"Personally I wish to extend to you my thanks for the courtesies shown me and I heartily assure you that the other members of this council join with me. We will not bid you goodbye for you are not going. We all join in wishing you good luck and have for you only best wishes for many years to come."

Alderman J. J. Dulin of the Fifth ward declared his past year one of the most pleasant of his eleven years.

ARCHDUKE IS AMONG VICTIMS

REDS AT BUDAPEST SLAY FORMER PREMIER AND COMMERCE CHIEF.

TRAVELERS TELL OF EXECUTIONS

Those Put to Death Are Among the Best Known Men in Austria.

(By Associated Press.)
London, April 15.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says the Acht Uhr Blatt and the Abendblatt of Berlin, print reports received from travelers to the effect that communists at Budapest have executed Archduke Joseph, Dr. Alexander Wekerle, former premier, and Baron Joseph Stapsenyl, minister of commerce. The report, the dispatch says, has not been confirmed.

Archduke Joseph of Austria is a son of Archduke Joseph Charles Louis and was born at Alessio on August 9, 1878. He received a technical education at the University of Budapest and later became commander of the seventh corps of the Austro-Hungarian army. During the war he was in command of the southern sector of the Austro-Hungarian army. It was reported on April 11 that he and his son, Archduke Joseph Francis, had taken the oath to submit unconditionally to the Hungarian national council, which was set up after the fall of the government, led by Count Karolyi.

Dr. Alexander Wekerle has for the last 15 years been one of the leading figures in Hungarian public life. He was a member of the cabinet which held office until April 21, 1919. After a brief interval Dr. Wekerle was again appointed premier, remaining in office until January 27, 1918. Even after this time he remained in nominal control until April 18, 1918, when Count Tisza was appointed premier. Dr. Wekerle was again appointed premier and remained in office until October 10, 1918. He was arrested at Budapest February 25, last, being charged with participation in a revolutionary plot. He was later freed but was interned in Budapest. On March 25, he was arrested by the communist government of Hungary.

50 PRIESTS ATTEND FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FATHER SHERIDAN

Solemn requiem high mass for the late Rev. Father Frank J. Sheridan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheridan, South Jackson street, was held at St. Patrick's church, 50 priests attending. The body lay in state at the church last night viewed by hundreds of persons.

Rev. David O'Hearn, professor at St. Francis seminary, Milwaukee, which school Father Sheridan attended for 10 years, delivered the funeral sermon, dwelling on the high quality of character of Father Sheridan, who had attained his goal in the priesthood at an early age. Father Sheridan was ordained in the priesthood in 1918. He was 27 years of age at the time of his death.

The Rev. Father Lillis, Platteville, was celebrant; Father Leuck, Cashon, deacon; Father Higgins, Milwaukee, subdeacon; and the Rev. Father McEnvoy, Milwaukee, officiated at the altar.

BRAVE AMERICANS

Portraits of Medal Winners, Made at the Front by Official Portrait Painter of the A. E. F., JOSEPH CUMMINGS CHASE.

Corporal JOHN R. O'BRIEN, of Boston, Co. K, 23d Infantry. Look Corporal O'Brien over and understand why the Germans signed the armistice. His appetite for German machine guns was insatiable. He received his Medaille Militaire and Croix de Guerre with palm for capturing all by his lonesome, a particularly peckish machine gun most July 18. "Machine gun hunting is more sport than any other game," says O'Brien. He was also cited in General Orders No. 40 for his success as a "commander of his platoon, of which he assumed command after his lieutenant and sergeant had been severely wounded." He kept his men of the platoon well up on the line, controlling both sides of the line, and his judgment conserved many lives. This on the 4th of June.

War Savings Society Day Being Observed In County Schools Today

Today is War Savings society day in every school in Rock county as well as throughout the country. Efforts are being made today to organize societies in all schools so as to fix the habit firmly upon pupils thereby adding to the future happiness and success of the nation.

Each school in the county is observing the day by appropriate exercises. A suggestive program was sent out last week by County Superintendent O. D. Antisdel to every teacher in the county. The program calls for a number of patriotic songs, remarks by the teacher, and the reading of the Thrift pledge, with the object of the question to be voted on by each school, "Shall This School Organize a War Savings Society?"

If the vote is favorable each school will organize, elect three officers, and choose three pupils to have charge of monthly programs.

In a number of Rock county schools savings societies have already been organized. From those which will be formed today, Mr. Antisdel expects to receive reports this week.

"Make this day one never to be forgotten by our pupils," is Mr. Antisdel's advice to teachers. "Put into it the enthusiasm, the loyalty, the devotion to a great cause, which has inspired our army and helped to give liberty to the world. Ours is the great privilege of serving and of molding the future, and of directing it toward a great destiny. Let us act now, in the living present."

An appeal to school children to save has been sent out to all the county schools by the Rock County War Savings committee.

"The war debt is enormous. It is so great that the average mind cannot conceive the extent of it. Financiers estimate that it will not be paid during the lifetime of the men and women of today and neither will it be paid during the lives of the generation now in school. That debt is the promise of our country. More than 100,000,000 Americans are back of it. They are free and intelligent people with great resources and a wonderful earning capacity and they are determined that every dollar of that debt shall be paid."

"It has been the privilege of the young men of our time to serve their country in the great world war. They have willingly given of their best efforts and some of them their lives for the good of humanity. They have fought our battles and have lived and died that this might be a better world. The only way you can deny the privilege that came to those men to serve in the colors. You are, however, called upon to interest yourselves in War Savings work. This is an obligation none the less important in the great work that lies before us and to that service every boy and girl and every man and woman is asked to give his best effort."

School Editors Get Out Real, Newsy Paper

The embryo editors of the Back school, Brookfield, are fast advancing into the realms of real business. The fourth issue of their weekly paper has come off the press and shows the earmarks of the real paper, including the price of 2 cents per copy.

With "Be Prepared" as their motto the pupils under the guidance of Miss Cora Thompson, teacher, are editing a newsy, historical, fictional, and instructional paper. The "news items" contain everything from the fact that Iva Selck wore a new pair of glasses to the doings of the people of the neighborhood. The last issue contains a number of letters written to John Beck, clerk of the school board, in 1910 when Miss Sadie Clapp was teacher.

The staff of the paper has been increased to include Earl Drevdahl, editor; Clifford Wells, assistant editor; Mabel Behling, associate editor; Elmer Schumacher, business manager; Harold Christenson, chief reporter.

COUNTY'S "NEAR EAST" QUOTA NEARLY FILLED

Related contributions to the "Near East" campaign fund received by Hon. J. M. Whitehead, campaign chairman, continue to swell the total until it is now approximately $11,000, or about three-fourths of the county's quota.

A check for $352.77 from Evansville, and one for $313.95 from New Richmond, received by Mr. Whitehead. More checks are expected this week.

AMERICAN LINER, LADEN WITH FOOD FOR POLAND, IS PILLAGED AT HAMBURG

Council of Four of the Peace Conference Again In Session With the Question of the Adriatic Before It For Consideration—Arthur J. Balfour Takes Lloyd George's Place.

(By Associated Press.)
Paris, April 15.—An American steamship laden with food for Poland was pillaged at Hamburg by the Germans, according to a dispatch from Warsaw received at Zurich and transmitted to the Echo de Paris.

"BIG FOUR" MEET.
Paris, April 15.—The Council of Four of the peace conference went into session again this morning with the question of the Adriatic before it for consideration. Arthur J. Balfour, British secretary for foreign affairs, took the place at the council session of Premier Lloyd George who went to London yesterday.

CAMPAIGN VOLUNTEERS WANTED; 2ND WARD WORKERS ARE CHOSEN

A strong appeal for volunteer workers in the campaign for the Victory Liberty loan was issued this morning at headquarters. Citizens are earnestly urged by the general committee to offer their services to put the campaign over in the shortest possible time. Persons with autos are especially wanted to join the group of men and women who are giving of their time and energy to make the drive a success.

"It is incumbent upon the citizens of Janesville and the townships of Rock, La Prairie, Johnson, Hart, Idaville, and Center, to immediately bestir themselves to the fact that the greatest opportunity in all history is now opening for them in the form of the Victory loan," says the statement.

"Uncle Sam has a bill to pay on April 21. Paying your share both in time and money is your way of helping him pay it. Every resident of Janesville and the district—every American—must help."

"Here's what this Victory loan—the last loan, pays for:

"1.—The tremendous war preparations that scared the kaiser into quitting a year ahead of scheduled time.

"2.—Half a million lives saved—lives of your fighters, who would have been killed in another year.

"3.—The fare to bring the boys back, the food and clothes and supplies they need until they come back.

"4.—The comfort and security of your peaceful home.

"5.—Putting your business and your job on a prosperous basis."

"LET'S FINISH THE JOB."

Mrs. F. C. Grant, captain of the women's committee in the second ward, has appointed her assistants in the campaign as follows: Mrs. H. H. Faust, Mrs. Edward Buss, Mrs. Arthur Baumann, Mrs. Victor Enright, Mrs. W. H. Dougherty, Mrs. William P. Langdon, Mrs. Earl T. Brown, Mrs. F. J. Hinterschied, Mrs. Peter V. Kuhn, Mrs. Lillian Edd, Mrs. Frank Kuhn, Mrs. Gerald McDermott, Floyd Brinkman, Lohrer Tunstead, Zebie Woodstock, John Drew, William Scobie, E. Kenneth Spoon, and Milton Wheatley.

The advisory committee of the city campaign will meet at 8 o'clock tonight.

Ten high school boys today volunteered through Principal George Bassford to distribute the Victory posters which were released by the committee. The boys were excused from school to take the posters to the different places in the business district.

The high school youths who distributed the posters were: Paul Claxton, Kurt Puchs, Gerald McDermott, Floyd Brinkman, Lohrer Tunstead, Zebie Woodstock, John Drew, William Scobie, E. Kenneth Spoon, and Milton Wheatley.

NEW WOOLEN MILLS OFFICE COMPLETED

The new offices of the Rock River Woolen Mills have been completed and are ready for occupancy. M. J. Pierce, manager, stated today. Additional finishing machinery has been installed in the plant to properly take care of the growing business.

The offices are modern in every respect. The woodwork and furniture is made of quarter-sawn oak; the walls have been decorated and an indirect lighting system has been installed.

Farmers' Strike Spreads Throughout Argentina

(By Associated Press.)
Buenos Aires, April 15.—The farmers' strike which has been more or less serious for many weeks in Santa Fe province, has spread to the province of Buenos Aires. It has been for the most part, a passive movement, but fighting has been reported at several points, where the strikers are attempting to prevent all farmers from planting crops.

EGGS IS EGGS EasterRushon PROD CHICKS

(By HARRIETTE WHIFATON)
ASTER is only four days off. The chickens will have to get busy.

All the pink and blue and speckled yellow eggs that the kiddies want for the Sunday will mean a big drain on the chicken coops.

Some urgent growers say their hens are meeting the rush. Others say they haven't as many eggs as usual.

Winslow's Grocery, so far as is known, holds the record of the heaviest egg yield last Saturday. Only 14,600 eggs on hand, 1,500 dozens, or 50 cases. Selling at 37 cents a dozen these eggs talking in money spoke for $555.

Other stores saw their big bunch of eggs a week ago Saturday. Others haven't seen the biggest bunch yet. Perhaps the chicks are already hiding them around in all the corners getting ready for the Easter hunt.

And along with the eggs goes the price of flour, going, going, gone. It's around $3.30 now and still travelling skyward, headed for the $4 mark, predict the grocers. It will be six or eight months before the price falls again, they say.

The shortage of wheat (still the high price list, the government holding up the price, the scarcity of farm labor. All those various excuses were given as reasons for the soaring price by various grocers about town, when some merely said it was beyond them they didn't know why it was going.

But, cheer up, the government predicts a record wheat crop for next year.

WORLD TRAVELER TO SPEAK AT METHODIST CHURCH THIS EVENING

Dr. J. M. Taylor, one of the most able and thrilling speakers in the Methodist Centenary team sent out to hold Centenary world program conventions, will speak at the Methodist Episcopal church here at 8 o'clock this evening. His subject will be, "The World, As I Have Seen and Photographed It."

His lectures will be illustrated by stereopticon views which were made especially for him from photographs taken on his tour, and colored by artists of first ability.

Dr. Taylor is not only a missionary with a record of large success in America and the Philippines, but he is also a world traveler. He has traveled 150,000 in the last ten years, visiting practically every country in the world.

Last November he returned from a 75,000 mile evangelistic tour upon which he was sent out by the Methodist Episcopal church.

As a missionary among the cannibals, he has had the unpleasant experience of being captured and made a prisoner with the imminent danger of being eaten by them.

Sanitary Bakery Will Open Early Next Month

The Federal System of Bakeries will open a sanitary bakery here about May 1, in the store now occupied by the Janesville Tire Co. It was announced today. Manager Pettit will arrive in the city tomorrow to make arrangements for the installation of ovens and equipment. The feature of the establishment will be the making of bread so people may watch the operations. One oven may be installed in the display window.

Boys after the saw are busy these days designing and building their bird houses. The Gazette has offered a saw—a real carpenter's saw which any carpenter would be proud to own himself—to the boy of the seventh or eighth grade, or about that age, who submits the best bird house in the contest which closes Friday, April 25.

CITY'S LUNG MOTOR A GOOD INVESTMENT

Janesville's lung motor, while little used compared with the period of time it has been the property of the city, nevertheless has well warranted the $275 expenditure.

The lung motor is kept at the west side fire station and in an instant can be placed in a motor vehicle and rushed to where resuscitation work is necessary.

Firemen declare that no less than five lives have been saved by this little machine

PROGRESS SEEN.

Although the spread of anarchy in Europe has proven to be an unsettling factor, constructive forces are at work which are making good progress, declares Henry Clews, New York banker. He says:

"The spread of anarchy in Europe is a decidedly unsettling factor. Germany is in a greater ferment than ever; so, too, are several of the other enemy powers, whose governments have been either destroyed or weakened by war. Nevertheless, constructive forces are at work beneath the surface, probably making more progress than appears. Newspapers have a fashion of exploiting the abnormal, and paying little attention to what remains normal which is not regarded as interesting. Similar remarks apply to the peace conference at Paris, where progress is undoubtedly being made in spite of the temporary but rigid differences which occasionally obtrude themselves. Considering the effects of prolonged intense war strain upon national sentiment, public patience over delay is to be expected. No task of such vast dimensions as the present peace treaty ever pressed for solution. The questions are multitudinous and highly intricate. The diplomatic bodies to be consulted are large and unwieldy, while nerves upon all sides are overwrought. Our own little war with Spain required four months in which to make peace. It is only five months since the armistice was signed; and in view of the immensity of the problem progress has been remarkably rapid. It is fair to assume that a solution is not far distant, or Mr. Wilson would not be coming home during the current month; though his return is hastened by the urgency for his presence at home.

"At home signs of reaction are multiplying against the various forms of radicalism which tend toward anarchy and chaos. Even the socialistic drift is meeting with a check, as the impracticability of such vagaries become more and more evident to the uninitiated. It is safe to say that government ownership of railroads in the United States is much less popular than at any time since it was seriously considered. Government management has proved unsuccessful, lowering service and raising costs as to create general dissatisfaction. Not only are our railroads inefficiently operated at present, but they are running down in condition and piling up a huge debt, thus becoming a load upon taxpayers that would not be tolerated were it not for the war, which compelled temporary government control. The roads are now threatened with an enormous deficit which the country must pay. To even up wages a further raise of $65,000,000 has been granted, making an increase of $1,265,000,000 since the war began. It is not to be supposed that public opinion would wrest the railroads from their owners, push them into confusion and then throw them back upon their owners in a bad condition. This would be a piece of dishonor which no congress would dare impose. There is nothing to be done except for the government to lift the roads out of difficulties which it has thrust upon them. Remedial action should be undertaken without delay; and in all probability an early session of congress will be called to deal with this highly important problem.

"A very similar experience is being endured by the telegraph and telephone systems, which have distinctly deteriorated and become more costly than necessary under public management. Moreover, the arbitrary and autocratic manner in which these concerns were treated by the authorities has raised considerable antagonism to government operation, plus no little sympathy for aggrieved owners and officials, which otherwise would not have developed. That these socialistic experiments have been tried out before ownership was actually transferred to the government; for the test has overwhelmingly proved that private initiative and efficiency far surpasses that of the government. It is conclusively proved that government control means a decline in service and an increase in costs, resulting in losses which taxpayers must ultimately pay. "Very similar conditions prevail in our cities, where public service corporations have been under political fire for a prolonged period. Because of prejudice, light and traction companies have not been permitted to raise charges in order to offset increased costs; and fair treatment was impossible to obtain; the result being to threaten a number of such concerns with bankruptcy. Civil authorities as a rule still refuse to allow such companies to raise charges, though admitting that they themselves will follow such a course if they secure control. When consumers realize that they must pay the increase, as they finally will; and that they must pay that increase either in higher fares or higher taxes, they will undoubtedly choose the former; and will in all probability not lose the opportunity of regaining the services upon political and selfish officials who have allowed transportation and other public utilities to fall into such impaired conditions."

If Beloit needs a probation officer, let her have it. She seems to be pained because the sheriff and district attorney do not spend more time in her midst. The sheriff and district attorney were elected to office from the entire county and as long as they do their duty, Beloit should be content.

THE VICTORY LOAN.

The last call for financial aid has been made by Uncle Sam. He wishes to borrow four and one-half billions to be used in finishing one of the biggest and most successful jobs he ever tackled. He naturally turns to his sons and daughters who through the great struggle when the whole world stood firmly by, their hands over on their pocketbooks ready to dig deep when the call for funds was sounded.

We have won the war. Our troops have taken a most important part in the conflict. We sent them over there to do their share and we backed them to the limit. The war is over and the guns silenced but there are some other tasks that have to be finished and it takes money. We must stick to the job until every boy who was sent across the ocean to aid our cause is safe at home in the arms of his mother, wife or sweetheart. That is our share to do and we must do it quickly and cheerfully.

The rate of interest and the terms for which the bonds will be offered are attractive from an investor's standpoint. They are particularly attractive to the man who has a small sum to invest for a short time.

It is the desire that every man and woman take a share in this loan. It is not desired that the banks be compelled to shoulder the burden. Rock county workers are lined up, awaiting the starting gun. When it is fired, let us all get back of the campaign and help put it over as quickly and successfully as possible.

The United States is a big country, but it is not big enough to hold decent American citizens and former Prince Joachim, Bloody Kaiser Bill's youngest offspring. We can get along very nicely without any of the Ego-maniacs, trash in our midst. "Joach" says he would like to live in America.

Germany is going to be given the grand opportunity of her existence. She will be allowed to mingle with decent nations again if she will only step up April 25, without any fuss, and sign on the dotted line. If she does not she will find herself in a worse fix than she ever has been.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

THE LAST FEW DROPS.

There was a dinner party at a big hotel the other night in honor of a famous soldier. And a distinguished gentleman who sat at my right. And who makes on an average a half million a year. He brought it would be a fine idea to order a quart of champagne. So he ordered it and the waiter went away and was gone. A long time. He was looking all around the wine cellar. Finally he came back and he hugged a bottle to his breast. He hated to open it. He left it in the cooler for a long, long time. He brought the check for it. The check called for $25. Then he opened the bottle. Making a ceremony of it. And filled six glasses. We all sat around for an hour and looked at it and admired it. But nobody had the heart to drink any of it. We knew it was the last champagne we would ever see. Finally the distinguished gentleman closed his eyes, so he couldn't witness his crime, and drank his. We admired ours until it was time to go home, and then— But why prolong the story Of such a tragedy?

Alexander Graham Bell is reported as saying that the telephone is a nuisance and he is sorry he invented it. Do we hear a motion to make it unanimous?

Dutch lumber experts say William Hohenzollern is worth about fifty cents a day as a wood chopper, but less than that as a war prophet.

A friend of our named Hatfield has asked us to get behind a movement to build a broad stone highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and we have promised to get behind it—just as far behind it as possible. Hatfield plans to build this road and then dig a nice pleasant canal alongside of it all the way for water traffic. We believe the canal feature of it would be a good thing. Many people have long wanted to journey from New York or way points to sunny Cal., and so, they get tired of walking on Hatfield's back, they can swim awhile along in the canal. This diversion would add spice to the trip.

THE GIFT OF PLAY.

Some have the gift of song and some possess the gift of silver speech. Some have the gift of leadership and some the ways of life can teach. And fame and wealth reward their friends, in jewels are their splendors told. But in good time their favorites grow very faint and gray and old. But there are men who laugh at time and hold the cruel years at bay. They romp through life forever young because they have the gift of play. They walk with children, hand in hand through daisy fields and orchards fair. Nor all the dignity of age and power and pomp can follow there; They've kept the magic charm of youth beneath the wrinkled robe of Time. And there's no friendly apple tree that they have grown too old to climb. They have not let their boyhood die, they can be children for the day. They have not bartered for success and all its praise, the gift of play.

They think and talk in terms of youth, with love of life their eyes are bright. No rheumatism of the soul has robbed them of the world's delight; They laugh and sing their way along and join in pleasures when they can. And in their glad photoplay they hold that mirth becomes a man. They spend no strength in growing old. What if their brows be crowned with gray? Their spirits in their breasts are young. They still possess the gift of play.

The richest men of life are not the ones who rise to wealth and fame. Not the great sages, old and wise, and grave of face and ment of frame. But straight, who spite of time and all its care kept the power to laugh and sing and in youth's fellowship to share. They that can walk with boys and be a boy among them, blithe and gay. Defy the withering blasts of Age because they have the gift of play.

"MICKEY"

A tear stained world is laughing with "Mickey"—the naughty little tomboy from the mountain country, with her pranks, her mischievous quick eyes, her magnetic smile.

"Mickey" is making motion picture history throughout the world. See it, too, this masterpiece of humor and pathos, love and adventure, to be shown at The Apollo all next week, starting Monday, April 21st.

You will find "Mickey" the sweetest, most appealing photoplay ever made. It has been immortalized in song and story—replete with situations which appeal to everyone. The picture was the inspiration for the song.

Prices: Matinees, 28c; children, 15c. Evenings: Main floor and first 2 rows of balcony, 35c; balance balcony, 25c; box seats, 55c.

SPECIAL NOTICE: Seats are not reserved, but if parties larger than 10 desire to have a row of seats held for them by ordering in advance we shall be glad to set them aside for any specified date.

MABLE NORMAND in "MICKEY"

A Few Words From Mr. Zanias

In bringing "Mickey" to Janesville I do so realizing what a wonderful picture it is and how universal it is in its appeal. There isn't one single person in this entire community who will not enjoy this picture.

"Mickey" is the highest priced picture ever brought to Janesville, and yet it will be played at popular prices. The rights to play the picture here were purchased outright. The purchase price was $700. It could have been secured on a percentage basis, but that would mean that the admission prices would have been $1.00 or more. I felt that Apollo patrons should not be denied the chance of seeing this exceptional picture and have taken the chance of paying $700 so that the prices would be kept down. After one audience sees "Mickey" I am sure that what they will say about it will bring more people to the Apollo to see it, than have ever witnessed one picture in this city.

I have seen "Mickey" and cannot begin to describe its wonderful appeal. All I can say is that it has my wholehearted recommendation and that everyone should plan now to see it on some day during the week it is here. You will never regret seeing "Mickey."

LITTLE TALKS ON TREES

THE AMERICAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

Copyright 1919, by The International Syndicate.
THE MAGNOLIA

Do you know of anything more beautiful than a magnolia tree in full bloom? Let anyone who does, speak up. Some one had said that God might have made a better and more delicious fruit than the strawberry but he never did. The same applies to the magnolia among flowering trees. It is a show worth going a considerable distance to see. Unfortunately there are many people in the United States who have never seen a magnolia tree covered with its creamy white flowers, magenta pink stained at the base of the petals.

While the magnolia is common in the South, it grows also in the North under proper cultivation. It blooms from April to June in the South, but later in the North. The streets and gardens in many places through the South, more especially in the Gulf States, are richly beautiful with this tree. There are some very fine specimens in the Nation's capital, scattered in the parks throughout the city.

There are several varieties of magnolia. The flowers of the great-flowered magnolia which are exceedingly fragrant are six to eight inches broad, those of the great-leaved magnolia, which are bell-shaped are eight to twelve inches in diameter. The great-flowered magnolia is the only perfectly evergreen species. Its leaves which are large, broad and elliptical are five to eight inches long and remain on the tree two years. They are a lustrous deep green above and smooth; on the under side rusty and downy.

Any questions on trees will be answered by The American Forestry Association of Washington. Enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

RED DEVILS DEFEAT GAS HOUSE OLYMPICS

The Red Devils last Sunday defeated the Gas House Olympics by a score of 8 to 7.

Binger, on the mound for the Red Devils, showed great form and fanned out 12 men. Bick and Raubacher played good games the latter scoring the winning score on Koebler's drive, which Anderson muffed.

Next Sunday the Red Devils will play the All-Stars at Bally's diamond. This will be a very fast game and with a number of new men the Red Devils ought to come out ahead. Five new stars have been added to the Red Devils lineup and with the rest of the bunch the All-Stars are going to be out of luck.

"THE STRANGE WOMAN"

A virile story that deals with the faults of present-day marriage. It is an extraordinarily interesting play, based on an idea of wide intellectual appeal.

HAPPILY MARRIED people should see this picture AND CONTINUE HAPPY. MIS-MATED FOLKS should see it—and TURN OVER A NEW LEAF.

Many men spend all they make when courting a girl to lead her to believe that they are good fellows, and after marriage make the wife feel like an Undertaker at a wedding when she asks for the price of an ice cream soda.

THE STRANGE WOMAN was strange because she would not let the man "Get Away With" the things he wanted to do.

Old Wives—Young Wives—Wives-to-be should see this picture, for the lesson in independence it teaches.

Every man should see it—That he may escape the wrath to come—If the Women get wise.

"My dear fellow!" bellowed Rushcroft, seizing the other's hand. "One frequently reads in books about it coming like this, at first sight, but, damme, I never dreamed that it ever really happened. Count on me! She ought to leave the stage, the dear child. No more fitted to it than an Easter lily. Her place is in the home, the—"

"Good Lord, I am not thinking of—"

And Barnes, agast, stopped before blurring out the words that leaped to his lips. "I mean to say this is a proposition that may also affect your excellent companions, Bacon and Dillingford, as well as yourself."

At twelve-thirty sharp Barnes came down from his room freshly shaved and brushed, to find not only Mr. Rushcroft and Miss Thackeray awaiting him in the office, but the Messrs. Dillingford and Bacon as well.

"I took the liberty, old fellow," said Rushcroft, addressing Barnes, "of asking your excellent co-workers to join us in our repast."

"Delighted to have you with us, gentlemen," said Barnes affably.

The sole topic of conversation for the first half hour was the mysterious slaying of their fellow lodgers. Mr. Rushcroft complained bitterly of the outrageous, high-handed action of the coroner and sheriff in imposing upon him and his company the same restrictions that had been applied to Barnes. They were not to leave the county until the authorities gave the word. One would have thought, to hear the star's indignant lamentations, that he and his party were in a position to depart when they pleased. It would have been difficult to imagine that he was not actually rolling in money instead of being absolutely penniless.

Barnes had been immersed in his own thoughts for some time. A slight

Miller's Antiseptic Oil, Known As SNAKE OIL

Positively Relieves Pain in Few Minutes

Try it right now for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, sore, stiff and swollen joints, pains in the head, back and limbs, corns, bunions, etc. After one application pain usually disappears as if by magic.

A new remedy used internally and externally for Coughs, Croup, Influenza, Sore Throat, Diphtheria and Tetanus.

This oil is conceded to be the most penetrating remedy known. Its prompt and immediate effect in relieving pain is due to the fact that it penetrates the affected part at once. As an illustration, pour ten drops on the thickened piece of sole leather and it will dissolve this resistance through and through in three minutes.

Accept no substitute. This great oil manufactured only by E. F. Fox & Sons, Inc., 300, 400 and 500, at Smith Drug Co., exclusively.

Too Fat?

A guaranteed weight reduction method; safe, pleasant. Brings slenderness, better health, happiness. Get small box of oil at local drug store. Follow directions. You are allowed to eat sweets, etc., no starvation or strenuous exercising. Your life becomes worth living with clear mind, improved figure, buoyant step, cheerfulness and optimism. Get thin and stay so. Put out and show others this advertisement.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid ammonia from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; keep it on to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

DOCTORS HAND OUT LIVE TIPS

Take Public Into Confidence

Prominent physicians claim people fail in life because of "nervous hunger" that is the active bright-eyed, strong nervous man or woman who is there at work or play.

Strong, well nourished nerves is the great secret of success, health and happiness.

Men and women try to live regardless of health, strength, ambition, energy and hope, they exhaust the speed limits, they waste nerve strength and energy and fail to store up reserve force, afterwards they only exist, life has no joys.

Without energy, ambition, strong nerves and pure blood one cannot hope to enjoy the fullest measure of success and happiness.

A noted specialist says, "Phosphated Iron brings strength to the blood, nerves and brain; that it is a perfect combination of vital elements of great tonic qualities when taken by Nervous, sick, nervous, that it will increase body and nerve energy, restore ambition and staying powers."

It also says: "If you are the victim of overwork, worry, excess of mental and physical forces, have the blues, and the pleasures of life are no longer enjoyable, that you need Phosphated Iron to brace, build you up and put you on your feet again."

Special Notice: To insure physicians and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we put in capsules only, no one can tell what is substituted and no pills or tablets.

PETEY DINK—PETEY LEARNS THAT A HAT IN THE STORE IS BETTER THAN TWO IN THE STREET.

down, as of reflection, darkened his eyes. Suddenly—perhaps impolitely—he interrupted Mr. Rushcroft's flow of eloquence.

"Have you any objection, Mr. Rushcroft, to a more or less personal question concerning your own private—er—misfortunes?" he asked, leaning forward.

For a moment one could have heard a pin drop. Mr. Rushcroft evidently held his breath. There could be no mistake about that.

"It's rather delicate, but would you mind telling me just how much you were stuck up for by the—er—was it a writ of attachment?"

"I was," said the star. "A writ of attachment, you might as well substitute. The act of a polluted, impetuous, parsimonious—what shall I say? Well, I will be as simple as possible—hotel keeper. Ninety-seven dollars and forty cents. For that pitiful amount he subjected me to—"

"Well, that isn't so bad," said Barnes, vastly relieved. He was covertly watching Miss Thackeray's half-averted face as he ventured upon the proposition he had decided to put before them. "I am prepared and willing to advance this amount, Mr. Rushcroft, and to take your personal note as security."

Rushcroft leaned back in his chair and stuck his thumbs in the armholes of his vest. He displayed no undue elation. Instead he affected profound calculations. His daughter shot a swift, searching look at the would-be Samaritan. There was a heightened color in her cheeks.

"Moreover, I shall be happy to increase the amount of the loan sufficiently to cover your return at once to New York, if you so desire—my train." Barnes smiled as he added the last two words.

"Extremely kind of you, my dear Barnes," said the actor, running his fingers through his hair. "Your faith in me is most gratifying. I—I really don't know what to say to you, sir."

"May I inquire just how you expect to profit by this transaction, Mr. Barnes?" Miss Thackeray asked steadily.

He started, catching her meaning. "My dear Miss Thackeray," he exclaimed, "this transaction is solely between your father and me. I shall have no other claim to press."

"I wish I could believe that," she said.

"You may believe it," he assured her.

"Isn't that the usual course?" she said, smiling, and her face brightened. "You are not like most men, Mr. Barnes."

"My dear child," said Rushcroft, "you must leave this matter to our friend and me. I fancy I know an honest man when I see him. My dear fellow, fortune is but temporarily frowning upon me. In a few weeks I shall be on my feet again, zipping along on the crest of the wave. I dare say I can return the money to you in a month or six weeks. If—"

"Oh, father!" cried Miss Thackeray. "We'll make it six months, and I'll pay any rate of interest you desire. Six per cent, eight per cent, ten per—"

"Six per cent, sir, and we will make it a year from date."

"Agreed. Get up and dance for us, Dink!"

Rushcroft Took the Whole Affair With the Most Noteworthy Complacency.

Dink! We shall be in New York to-morrow!"

"You forget the dictatorial sheriff, Mr. Rushcroft," said Barnes.

"The varter!" barked Mr. Rushcroft. It was arranged that Dillingford and Barnes were to go to Hollingford in a hired motor that afternoon, secure the judgment, pay the costs, and attend to the removal of the personal belongings of the stranded quartette from the hotel to Hart's Tavern.

The younger actors stoutly refused to accept Barnes' offer to pay their board while at the Tavern. That, they declared, would be charity, and they preferred his friendship and his respect to anything of that sort. Miss Thackeray, however, was to be immediately relieved of her position as chambermaid. She was to become a paying guest.

Rushcroft took the whole affair with the most noteworthy complacency. He seemed to regard it as his due, or more properly speaking as if he were doing Barnes a great favor in allowing him to lend money to a person of his importance.

"A thought has just come to me, my dear fellow," he remarked as they arose from table. "With the proper kind of backing I could put over one of the most stupendous things the theater has known in fifty years. I don't mind saying to you—although I'll rather say to you—that I have written a play—a four-act drama that will pack the biggest house on Broadway to the roof for as many months as we'd care to say. Perhaps you will allow me to talk it over with you a little later on. You will be interested, I'm sure."

Egad, sir, I'll read the play to you. What he, husband. Have your best automobile sent around to the door as quickly as possible. A couple of my men are going to Hollingford to fetch him by—"

"Just a minute," interrupted Putnam Jones, wholly unimpressed. "A man just called you up on the phone, Mr. Barnes. I told him you was entertaining royally at lunch and couldn't be disturbed. So he asked me to have you call him up as soon as you received. His words, not mine. Call up Mr. O'Dowd at Green Fanc. Here's the number."

The mellow voice of the Irishman soon responded to Barnes' call.

"I called you up to relieve your mind regarding the young woman who came last night," he said. "You observe that I say 'came.' She's quite all right, safe and sound, and no cause for uneasiness. I thought you meant that she was coming here as a guest, and so I made the very natural mistake of saying she hadn't come at all, at all. The young woman in question is Mrs. Van Dyke's maid. But, bless me soul, how was I to know she was even in existence, much less expected by train or motor or Shanks' mare? Well, she's here, so there's the end of our mystery."

Barnes was slow in replying. He was doubting his own ears. It was not conceivable that an ordinary—or even an extraordinary—lad's maid could have possessed the exquisite voice and manner of his chance acquaintance of the day before, or the timidity to order that four-faced chauffeur about as if—The chauffeur!

"But I thought you said that Mr. Curtis' chauffeur was moon-faced and—"

"He is, head!" broke in Mr. O'Dowd, chuckling. "That's what deceived me entirely, and no wonder. It wasn't Peter at all, but the rapsodist washer who went after her. He was instructed to tell Peter to meet the four o'clock train, and the blockhead forgot to give the order. Bedad, what does he do but sneak out after her himself, scared out of his boots for fear of what he was to get from Peter. I had the whole story from Mrs. Van Dyke."

"Well, I'm tremendously relieved," said Barnes slowly.

Dinner Stories

A minister living in "a country district of the Hawaiian Islands had great difficulty in making his parishioners feel they were properly married until he devised the following service:

To the man: "You savvy this woman?"

"Yes."

"You likee?"

"Yes."

"Bye and bye you no kick out?"

"No."

To the woman: "You savvy this man?"

"Yes."

"Now, you all understand that the trunk is the middle part of the body, don't you?"

"Yes, ma'am," chorused the class, with one exception.

"You understand it, too?" asked the teacher of the boy who had not answered.

"No, ma'am, because it isn't so."

"Why, my boy, what do you mean?"

"Well," replied the boy, "you ought to go to the circus and see the elephant!"

The native minister was telling the missionary in charge of his district that a sparrow had built a nest on the roof of his house.

"Is there anything in the nest yet?" asked the missionary.

"Yes," said the Indian brother, proud of his English, "the sparrow has pups."

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Well, here we are once more waiting to hear about Uncle Lucky and Billy Bunny whom we left in the woods, you remember, listening to the little bird's sweet song.

As soon as the dear old gentleman rabbit had buried the cage, which I told you about in the last story, the two little rabbits drove away in the luckymobile and after a while the sun went down and it was night time. So they looked all around to find a place to sleep, but there wasn't any hollow stump in sight or a nice warm cave, or even a bush. So they didn't know what to do.

Real City Team Now Ready For Brewers

EVEVENTH HOUR DRIVE FOR FUND IS STARTED

BULLETIN

Practice set for 5:30 to-night, has been postponed to the same hour tomorrow night, because of rain.

(By R. L. EAGON.)

Janesville now has a baseball team, which—with the addition of a professional pitcher or two—will be ready to put in the field against all comers.

Stelly Hill, shortstop, and Buck Berger, outfielder, signed with the club last night and Pete Fleming is said to be willing to come over to the Janes with his remarkable south wing.

This makes the Janes formidable in every department, with the possible exception of third base and Eckert, who looked good in a short debut Sunday will be given an option on the far corner.

If Eckert delivers, the infield will have Dopp, Stelly Hill and Eckert and looks impregnable.

Pete Fleming, originally a catcher, today agreed to take up the backstop burden next Sunday. He is a clever ball-player and a brainy one, and with Les Fleming in close co-operation with a real pitcher, things should happen.

This will leave for the outfield, Berger, Kalkuske and Cutts. And they all look good.

Pete Fleming comes in, the pitching burdens will fall on Black, Peter Eldred, Vinney, (if he joins the fold) and probably Messersmith.

Adams of Fox Lake, says he will be on hand next Sunday. Adams is an outfielder of unknown quality. And while the present team looks good on paper, he will not be overlooked.

Lincoln Will Stand.

Few changes will be made in the lineup unless they are obviously imperative. Janesville this year must have a team that will hang together until the last man is out. Constant shifting has ruined many good ball teams. The St. Louis Browns and Cardinals, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds proved this. The Philadelphia Athletics, when they had the "million dollar infield," proved the contrary.

One thing should be understood. The Janesville team will represent no faction or personal interest, nothing but the city of Janesville. It will not be the Gazette team. The Gazette will simply stand behind it, as it would any other club.

Will Go Limit.

The writer has no other aim than to give the city a real ball team, and has gone the limit, and will go farther. But if the city is to be brought to Janesville, enough money must be raised to pay for the uniforms, and to post a guarantee for the expenses of the Milwaukee club's trip here and back.

Things moved fast Monday. Sheldahl got a Chicago firm on the long distance telephone during the day and placed an order for uniforms.

The Chicago concern promised to fully deliver the uniforms to the writer later than the Friday. The Janes will take the field next Sunday a new team, a good team and with the fighting spirit. They should be hard to beat.

The Milwaukee All-Stars, of past, have had a good collection of ball-players. What they have this year is not known. Manager Gavin said over the long distance telephone last Saturday that the team would be the first of their season.

BRINGING UP FATHER

EDDIE PULLEN RELIEF DRIVER IN LONG RACE

EDDIE PULLEN

Eddie Pullen, who holds the American and world's road race record of 87.8 miles an hour, established in the Corona, Cal., race in 1914, will be relief driver for R. Clifford Durant in the revival of the famous 500-mile classics at Indianapolis May 31, when the Speedway stakes its $50,000 Liberty Sweepstakes. Pullen is also the only American driver to ever win the American Grand Prize road race, achieving that prominence in the 1914 achieving that prominence in the 1914 achieving that prominence in the 1914.

Who will start in the Sox next Sunday against Milwaukee? He has not been decided and will not be announced probably until the game starts. All the twirlers will be warmed up and the best looking man chosen. Eddie will be brought over from Alford, and if he is going in form, should be unbeatable. Fleming will be given a show if he signs and his wing is peppy. Bick has shouldered the bulk of the pitching thus far, and while he has shown to be a first-string man, will not be worked to death unless the occasion demands. Still, there is no telling now.

Two big league pitchers want to sign with Janesville, and as soon as a few games are won, and the treasury gets a few meals, they will be taken in to the fold.

If the writer fails to put a ball team in Janesville, if the city is so dead for baseball, he will simply pack his kit and, like the Arabs, silently vanish.

But the vanishing act is not booked for any current dates—yet.

COME ACROSS.

ROLLIE ZEIDER MAY PILOT TOLEDO TEAM

Port Wayne, Ind., April 15.—Rollie Zeider, former third baseman, now scout for the Chicago Cubs, may succeed Roger Bresnahan as manager of the Toledo club, according to information given by Zeider tonight.

Zeider declared that negotiations with the Toledo owners had reached such a stage that he was practically assured of the berth, and that, inasmuch as he had been in the club for a long time, he would not stand in the way, he feels satisfied that he will soon be able to assume the role of leader of the Mudhens.

The total value of the egg crop of this country last year was more than as much as the proceeds of all the freight and passenger traffic of all the railroads of this country. It was more than five times the value of the gold and silver taken from the mines of this country during the same period.

THE BALL'S ROLLIN'

Little drops of water, little grains of sand, baseball is just as dead in town, as a Tennessee jazz band.

After Milwaukee, what? Wires are working to get Madison, Edgeron, Rockford or Jefferson to send a team over this way Sunday, April 27.

Milwaukee is billing the game here like a circus and a lot of faithful fans from the Cream City will accompany the team over here. Let's show 'em we've got a real town, and quite a nifty ball team. Are you there, folks?

COME ON, SIX—

Maybe the Sharon firm that sent us that ball with six home runs in it was kidding us. And maybe they wasn't. We'll see next Sunday.

SUNDAY A. M.

Call me early, mother, I'm on the Janesville team.

We're going to show the skeptics. The game's not what it seems.

The hardest-luck-guy-in-the-world will be the boy who wakes up next Sunday and hasn't got two bits to see the rejuvenated Janes trim the cocky Brewers. Start saving, boys.

I used to pitch for the St. Louis Browns," said an eager twirler, anxious to sign up.

"That's nothing against you," said the manager. "I'll try you out anyway."

That long distance gun that shelled Paris had nothing on the "gun" demonstrated last Sunday by Bick and Vinney.

BY THE WAY

Vinney looks like the goods. He can have all the show he wants with the Janes if he says the word.

JULY 1.

There little barroom don't you cry.

You'll be a dragstore, By and By.

We sincerely hope that "Pants" Schaber will be on the job next Sunday with a lot of new stuff. "Pants" is being kept in line as a catcher. He will have a regular job warming up the pitchers, and will have an opportunity before long to demonstrate his prowess behind the hickory stick.

The very likely will be given a chance in the field.

Kid Gleason is quoted as saying he's worried about the Sox pitching staff already. Quit kiddin', old kid.

FAMOUS MYSTERIES

The resurrection of baseball here. That's enuf. SO LONG, FELLERS.

JUNIORS ALL-STARS BEAT MIDGETS, 7-4

The Junior All-Stars won their first game of the season yesterday, defeating the Fourth Ward Midgets, 7 to 4 at the Fourth ward park. Dawson, twirling for the winners, pitched a perfect game, allowing only 3 hits and striking out 9 men. Leary, on the mound for the Midgets, struck out 7 men and allowed 3 hits.

The Junior All-Stars will practice Monday and Wednesday nights every week at the Fourth ward park, beginning at 8:30.

SHORT STUDIES IN GEOLOGY.

The United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, announces that its Professional Paper 108, entitled "Shorter Contributions to General Geology, 1917," is ready for distribution. This volume includes twelve short papers, as follows:

Baked shale and slag formed by the burning of coal beds.

Stratigraphy in southwestern Maine and southeastern New Hampshire.

Sheltonback started on the slab and pitched three good innings. Then he passed a man and the Sox blew up behind him. Three hits, two bases on balls, and errors by Weaver, Liebold, and Felsch gave the locals all their runs. Danforth worked the rest of the game and was hit rather hard, but kept the Gassers from scoring.

Flute Homer Averts Whitewash.

The Sox could not hit either Beresky, a right hander, or Black, a southpaw. They would have been whitewashed if Felsch had not hit a fluke home run. It was a liner to center which shot past Leach on a bad bound.

SHREVEPORT GASSERS TRIM SOX, 5-1; BLOW UP IN FOURTH ROUND

Shreveport, La., April 15.—The regular White Sox fell easy victims to another Texas league team yesterday when the Shreveport Gassers licked them, 5 to 1, in a hurry-up exhibition. Poor pitching, poor fielding, and weak batting were the faults of the Sox.

Shellenback started on the slab and pitched three good innings. Then he passed a man and the Sox blew up behind him. Three hits, two bases on balls, and errors by Weaver, Liebold, and Felsch gave the locals all their runs. ## THE HEAVENS IN MAY

(By Dr. C. S. Brainin of the Columbia University Observatory Staff.)

THE May sky map this year is very different from the one for April. The positions of four, and particularly noteworthy is the fact that, for the first time in many months, we are enabled to show the position of Venus.

Venus is so close to the sun that it usually sets well before the time which we have set for our maps. Our readers have no doubt noticed this very beautiful evening star, glowing brilliantly in the western sky just after sunset. It is the brightest of all the celestial bodies after the sun and the moon.

Further up in the western sky, not far from the Heavenly Twins, is Jupiter, which is next to Venus in brilliancy, and still higher is Saturn, the ringed planet. Between them, but invisible to the naked eye, the map shows the position of Neptune, the farthest planet of the solar system. Neptune's size is considerable, about twenty times that of the earth, but its enormous distance from us more than offsets this difficulty to observe than Venus, because still closer to the sun, is Mercury, the innermost planet of the system. About May 4 this planet will be a morning star and will rise somewhat before the sun, so that observation will be possible. It can be found low in the eastern sky about an hour before sunrise.

The Dippers. I doubtless more people know the Big Dipper than any other group of stars in the heavens. Each night it will be found almost directly overhead at map time. The ancients called it the Great Bear, but this name includes other stars besides the Dipper. The two stars called the Pointers, through which an arrow is drawn on the map, are widely used to find the position of the star Polaris, which lies very close to the North Celestial Pole, in a field entirely lacking in other bright stars. This makes its identification very easy, for an imaginary line connecting the Pointers prolonged in the direction of the arrow reaches very close to it. The North Star is the last star in the handle of the Little Dipper, which is itself a part of the group called the Lesser Bear.

If you will look for the Big Dipper each night for a year, you will find it occupying different positions in the sky, but if by means of it you find Polaris, you will be struck by the fact that it does not change its position relative to you, your horizon and your compass directions. Parenthetically, we may say that of course Polaris is not absolutely on the Pole itself, but the difference does change slightly, but to the naked eye this motion is indistinguishable.

Further observation will show that all the northern stars seem to go about the pole in circles, and that the rate at which this motion is not one of the stars themselves, but merely a reflection, as it were, of the Earth's axial rotation. The Earth rotates on its axis in twenty-four hours, therefore the stars will seem to do the same, but in the opposite direction. When we are seated in a moving railroad coach the stationary objects outside seem to fly by us with a speed equal to ours, but in the opposite direction. If it were not for the swaying of the coach, we really could tell, merely from the evidence of our senses, what really was in motion, we or the landscape.

Will Meet Heavens. If we imagine the Earth's axis prolonged into the heavens, it will meet the heavens in two points, which are the celestial poles. To an observer at the earth's pole the celestial pole is directly overhead in the zenith. Every point on the Earth's surface moves in a circle about the Earth's axis, and similarly every point in the heavens must seem to move in a circle about the axis of the celestial sphere. The Earth moves from west to east, the stars seem to rotate from east to west. Polaris looks like a single star to the eye, but the telescope reveals a little companion star of the ninth magnitude, and the spectroscope shows that the larger component itself is made up of three units, which no telescope can show separated. Two of these stars are much smaller than the third, and revolve about it in orbits in four days and twelve years respectively.

Mizar, the second star from the end of the handle of the Big Dipper, is also interesting, because it has a so-called rider, a small companion of the fifth magnitude, called Alcor. A person with good eyesight can on a clear night see the two stars as separate objects. This has been used as a test of vision.

But, further, Mizar itself is also a telescopic double star, which can be studied even in a small instrument. A German with the unfortunate name of Ludendorff measured its distance from us and found it to be about 4,600,000,000,000 miles away. Light takes seventy-five years to pass over this enormous distance. Mizar may be insignificant when we compare its apparent brightness with that of the sun, but as a matter of fact its enormous distance proves that it is really no less than 120 times as brilliant as the sun. Between Mizar and Alcor, which the naked eye can barely separate, is a distance about 15,000 times as great as the distance from the earth to the sun.

Last year the continent of North America had the great good fortune of a chance to view a total eclipse of the sun; this year the luck is with the southern continent. On the twentieth of this month there will be such an eclipse, whose path of totality will run first in a northeasterly direction, from Africa in Northern Chili, thru Brazil in Bolivia and Caxias in Brazil, to San St. Paul islands, then in a southeasterly direction through Princes Island off Africa, and Libreville in the French Congo, thence to the African east coast. In 1924 there will be a total eclipse observable in Mexico and in 1925 another, whose path of totality will cross the State of New York.

SCHOOL MA'AM SHORTAGE THREATENS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., April 14.—This year's supply of teachers will be very short according to full returns from all the institutions in Wisconsin that send out graduates as teachers.

Before the war 2200 new teachers were needed for the rural schools each year. The number needed next year for rural schools cannot now be definitely computed, but it is certain to be much larger than 2200. To meet this demand, the normal schools will send out 230 from their rural courses; the teachers training courses in high schools will graduate 335; the county training schools will send out 428 who had previously had a high school education and 368 who will have only from two to three years of work beyond the grades, in all. This will total 1260, or about 58 per cent of the number needed before the war.

The supply from these sources this year will probably not be over 50 per cent of the number needed.

For elementary school work in state graded schools and in grades below high school in city elementary grades 1000 new teachers are needed each year. The normal schools will this year turn out only 713 elementary school teachers, and 16 kindergarten teachers, or only about 40 per cent of the number needed.

The high schools of the state required before the war 540 new teachers each year, exclusive of teachers for special subjects such as domestic science, manual training, etc. This year the university will turn out only about 155 regular high school teachers, the colleges about 140, and the normal schools about 130 or 425 in all.

The number of new high school teachers needed this year will be much greater than in pre-war years, and the shortage in high school teachers for special subjects is much more than formerly. There are in sight not over 75 per cent of the high school teachers needed.

ALBANY

Albany, April 14.—The funeral of the late Mrs. R. H. Hewitt was held from the M. E. church yesterday afternoon. Rev. Foster and the Eastern Star having charge.

Mrs. Hewitt died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Bishop. She was 90 years of age and has lived in and around Albany for about 60 years. She was the mother of two children, Edward, deceased, and Maggie Bishop. She leaves her daughter, daughter-in-law, three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. M. Tibbits, who is 92 years old.

Mrs. Myron Mint entertained eleven children last Wednesday evening in honor of her granddaughter's birthday. All report a good time and a fine supper.

Mrs. Almira Carver, son T. M., and daughter Mrs. Carrie Putnam, left Thursday for Savannah, Ga., where the former will take treatment. Mr. Carver will visit in Iowa before returning, while the daughter will remain with her mother.

E. L. Edwards and wife of Monroe, visited in Albany yesterday.

Martin Bowers has traded his farm west of town for property in Minnesota. Mr. Hoesley, Monticello, making the trade. Mr. Hoesley expects to move here and put in the crops.

W. J. Finn was a Monroe visitor Saturday.

Miss Town, Milwaukee, a state Sunday school worker, gave a talk in the Baptist church yesterday morning.

Edna to Roscoe Shout and wife, April 7, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds, Chicago, were here last week to attend the funeral of the latter's brother, Leo Roy Jacobson.

Frank Wain spent Tuesday in Brodhead.

Mrs. M. Carver spent the latter part of last week in Brodhead with her daughter.

John Burton and Miss Tressa Trow were married in Rockford, April 2, and will reside on his mother's farm north of town.

Corp. Chester Phelps returned from overseas and Camp Grant last Tuesday.

Martin Bower's family is entertaining the following:

George Osterander, daughter, Mabel, and granddaughter visited the family.

OLD UNCLE SAM'S THE FAVORITE IN PLANS FOR FIRST FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC

Aviators and aircraft prominent in plans for transatlantic flight. Above, left to right: Lieut. Col. Raymond C. Collingshaw, Canadian; Col. J. C. Porte, British; Capt. Fontan, French; R-34, Grant British dirigible. Center: U. S. type; H. C. Hawker, British. Below: left to right, Lieut. Roy N. Francis, U. S. army; Lieut. Commander Patrick N. L. Balingier, U. S. navy, and Commander J. H. Towers, U. S. navy.

A second voyage across the Atlantic which will rank second to only that of the Mayflower, may be made any day now. Four nations are rushing plans for the initial attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean by air. Lieutenant Fontan, French flier, is reported to have left France for South Africa to attempt a flight to South America. But despite this fact America appears the favorite in the field of contestants. The navy, under strict secrecy, is completing three giant seaplanes, NC 2, 3 and 4, for the flight and all may attempt it at any moment. Great Britain hopes to send both an airship and a dirigible across. An Italian Caproni is being prepared for the flight, but nothing definite is known of the Italians' plans.

Those attending are requested to bring their lunch.

Sing Care Away. Someone has said that we can sing away our cares more easily than we can reason them away, and that is lucky for those of you girls whose logic is not your strong point. Whether your voice is weak or strong, try singing as a cure for the blues.

Mrs. E. Savage visited her cousin, Mrs. Huffman, Rutland, two days last week.

Mrs. Oscar Pursett has returned from her visit in Milwaukee. The Community club meets in the church basement Thursday afternoon.

THE DOT DRAWING CLASS

"Now," said the Dot Drawing teacher, "while I am going for some fresh chalk, I want to find out if any child can tell me what we could do with this triangle that I have drawn on the board."

"I know what I would do with it," said the dots," said Agnes.

"And what's that?" asked the teacher.

"I would join the dots," replied Agnes, "and get my mother to fold up a newspaper like the triangle to make something for my little brother. It would be a _____."

RELATIVES OF HEROES SEE GREAT PARADE
OF HEROES FROM GRANDSTAND MILES LONG

Birdseye view of parade of Twenty-seventh division passing record grandstand on Fifth avenue, New York.

Seventy-five thousand relatives of New York's twenty-seventh division watched the recent parade of the veterans from a giant grandstand two and one-half miles long on Fifth avenue. The greatest crowd in the nation's history honored the heroes along the route.

PENELOPE

By M. McCulloch-Williams.

From her youth, Penelope was like a sapling—so declared her family. Other folks likened her to a flower, or a stalk of wheat—she was so slim and, withal, so lithely graceful. The pity of it, they did not tell her. Therefore she drew her fine hair away from her classic brow, and made herself as nearly a fright as a healthy complexion and very good eyes permitted. The joy of life for her centered in the theater. Each week she bought next week's ticket—this to make sure of an end seat. Judge, then, her mental state when, all intent upon seeing the star play of the winter, she found her chosen and paid-for seat occupied by an elderly man and the row filled with what was evidently a family party—a sweet-faced, white-haired woman, two pretty girls, a young matron, vivacious and no-end stylish, and a very good looking young man, evidently her husband. Those two were unmistakably urban. Penelope instantly decided; the others had provincial written all over them. She waited with a sort of grim satisfaction the ousting of the intruder.

The usher spoke sharply to the old man. Instantly the younger one leaned across, showing a handful of checks. The usher studied them intently. The young man rose, stepped out in front of her, looked at the check the usher held, then said politely: "There's evidently a mix-up. Will you please take my seat?"

"You live out of town?" Penelope asked.

"A thousand miles," he laughed. "So—of course—I want to see all the wonders."

"You shall see this—at your ease," Penelope assured him smilingly. "I can come to see it any afternoon—" "And this is his only chance," the young man interrupted gratefully. "My people are leaving town tonight—else we should have waited for the evening performance. Still—I don't like taking your seat. Come with me to the box office, please. It needs—a good talking to."

"Which I am quite equal to undertake by myself. Sit down and see the play," Penelope decided, amazed at her own self-possession. She was ever more astonished when, in the lobby—to which he had followed her—the young man touched her arm, saying deferentially: "You must let me have your name—here is my card. I simply can't thank you enough—dad's heart was so set on this."

Penelope took the card without looking at it, handing over her own, face down, in return. Then, with a quick "Go right back to dad!" she darted outside, resolved to have it out with the box office at a more convenient season. She had had excitement enough for one day.

Next afternoon she had a surprise—the maid brought in cards for her—Mr. and Mrs. Adriance had called to see her. Perhaps fate and provisions—anyhow something had inspired Pen to curl her hair and get into a pale violet afternoon frock that became her wonderfully well. Thus it happened she was all unlike the forbidding tailor-made self the visitors expected to find.

The change put them all at their ease. The Adriances, it turned out, had several friends who were well known to the Chesters. That had emboldened them to come over and ask Pen to make one of a theater party the following week, with a little supper afterward.

This was but the first of a series of happy outings—to dinners, to theaters, to concerts and many delightful entertainments. After six weeks of it Pen took herself sternly to task—she was growing too fond of all this. She did not admit it even to herself, but she knew she was growing fond of Frank Adriance. He was not married. It turned out—the gay young matron who sat by his side at the theater was his sister-in-law. Her husband was abroad on business and they were living at a hotel for the winter.

One day when she was at her worst—sallow and hollow-eyed from her effort to crush her growing fondness for Frank—the affair came to a crisis. As it happened, she had dressed herself in a forbidding, slouchy green something, at which even economy in the person of Grandma Betton had cried out aghast. Yet when Frank Adriance, unannounced, came upon her in the library, on her knees, sorting old prints and papers, he did not pause to see what a fright she had made of herself. He lifted her to her feet, looking earnestly in her face, and began, with a husky tremor, "Pen—darling—I can't live without you—so—I came at this unearthly hour to tell you—"

"Me?" Pen cried incredulously, dragging him toward a big bookcase, the doors of which furnished a distorted mirror. "Look! Such a fright! You—you must be making sport of me!"

"A fright! You're a goddess—just now, I admit; slightly disguised!" Adriance returned, flinging his arms about her: "Say yes, dearest! I shan't let you go until you do."

"You are sure?" Pen insisted tremulously. "What can you see in me to love?"

"Yourself! I loved you the minute I looked at you—tall and slender and different—the woman of all the world for me!"

ORIENTAL EXPRESS FROM CALAIS TO BLACK SEA TO BE RUNNING BY MAY

Route of oriental railway from Calais to Black sea.

Establishment of a through train service connecting England, France and Italy with the Orient, without passing through territory of the central empires, has been assured by the commission on the international regime of ports, waterways and railways named by the peace conference. Under this plan a train de luxe to be called the "Simplon-Orient express" will run between Paris and the Orient by way of Lausanne, Simplon, Milan, Venice, Trieste, Laibach, Agram and Vinkovce, branching there to connect with Bucharest and Odessa on one hand and with Belgrade, Constantinople and Athens on the other. The train will connect at Paris with the London-Calais-Paris train and at Milan with another fast train. Part of this program will be put in effect on April 15 and the remainder May 1. The commission is continuing investigation of the clause to be inserted in the peace treaty in regard to ports under international control.
